RESEARCH PROJECTS

2021- Co-director, PELLA (Pella Environs Landscape Archaeology), Greece.

This excavation and field survey research project is dedicated to understanding the long-term history of the capital of the Empire of Macedon, with particular focus on excavations targeting its expansion in the fifth and fourth centuries BCE. The project is a collaboration between the Ephoreia of Pella in the Greek Archaeological Service and the Kelsey

Museum of the University of Michigan.

2014-2019 Director, Olynthos Project Field Survey, Greece.

The Olynthos Project is focused on recovering a detailed picture of Olynthos as an example of a classical city, encompassing its history as well as its physical, social, and economic topographies. The project is a synergasia between the Greek Archaeological Service and the British School at Athens, with collaborators based at the Ephoreia of Chalkidiki, the University of Liverpool and the University of Michigan.

1994-2000 Co-director, Leptiminus Archaeological Project, Tunisia.

The Leptiminus Project is a multiscalar archaeological fieldwork project combining excavation and fieldwalking, standing building survey and geophysical survey, environmental and technological studies, and artifact and palaeoeconomic analyses. The project is a collaboration between the National Institute of Heritage (Tunisia), the University of Michigan (USA), and the University of Manitoba (Canada).
